station WFJD's tower behind the Fairhaven bowling alley.

Police Chief James Moran informed Selectmen last Tuesday of these proposed changes which are expected to be in place by next Spring. Electronic Sales and Service Inc. of Fairhaven will do the work. Moran said the sub-region radio reception (which covers Fairhaven, Acushnet and Mattapoisett) has dead spots in Mattapoisett's transmission. "If we go into the new setup, we will be guaranteed about 100 percent better reception", said the chief.

The price tag on these changes will be a total of $9,600 for the move of the sub-region antenna to Fairhaven, with Mattapoisett's share, $3,200. Mattapoisett's share to update the Bristol County installation will be $1,500. The Bristol County antenna covers not only Bristol County but Mattapoisett, which is in Plymouth County. Moran noted the Bristol County installation is about 10 years old, and he understands the equipment is no longer being stocked, so there is no chance for it to be repaired. He added that there will continue to be a $500. maintenance contract fee.

Selectmen agreed to place an article in the town warrant seeking $3,200 for the sub-region installation changeover.

HEARD A REPORT from Police Officer Kenneth Pacheco on the success of the Harbor Patrol this summer.

Pacheco said the patrol extended from May 27 through September 30 and was manned by himself and Officer Joseph Falkner for a total of 299 man hours. He said, "Of these hours, 96 were paid by the town from the Harbormaster's budget; the balance was volunteer hours donated by Falkner. Pacheco added that his boat, the "Sea Robin", was used for scheduled routine patrol, unscheduled patrol and surveillance and to respond to emergency calls.

Among the activities the patrol participated in were: 19 citations issued for violations; 62 verbal warnings; two arrests; 83 safety and equipment checks; 34 assists; one medical assist; eight rescue calls and seven times called out when not on duty. He noted the two arrests were two persons drinking on the float at the wharf and cutting a skiff loose.

Selectmen expressed appreciation for the officers' work and noted that most towns on the coast have a Harbor Patrol. The board agreed to place an article in the town warrant to seek funds to continue the harbor patrol next summer. Pacheco started the service in 1983, commented Police Chief James Moran, and said the constant visibility has reduced the number of boat break-ins.

Selectmen asked the chief to prepare a budget to operate the patrol and to work with the Harbormaster to seek a suitable spot at the wharf for the patrol boat with easy access out of the harbor.

Moran noted there has been some criticism of the patrol, but statistics show the visible patrol did cut down on vandalism and reck-

DISCUSSED with Chief Moran the condition of Danny's Village Auto Body Shop on Route 6 (near Brandt Island Road). It had been noted that there are a great many used cars in the lot that are visible from the street and from the home of Mary Linhares.

The chief informed selectmen that Danny Querido, owner of the body shop, has moved many of the cars from the front lot and plans to install a screened fence between the yard and the Linhares house. He commented "there should be a big difference in a week".

Moran also noted the police department has been using the area for storing stolen cars. He said he has suggested to Danny that the impounded and confiscated cars be screened off and locked up to ensure their not being stolen.

It was noted Danny is operating with Linhares' licenses and plans to obtain those needed under his own name.

NOTED the residents of Wolf Island Road have expressed an interest in getting cable TV in their homes. Selectman James F. Huntoon recommended these residents write a formal commitment to the American Cablesystems requesting what services they want. Selectmen will refer the letter to the cable company. Huntoon noted when cable TV was originally installed none of the Wolf Island residents were interested at that time.

RECEIVED A DONATION from Henry Norton of Duxbury to be utilized in helping with the maintenance of Ned's Point park. Mr. Norton stated he enjoyed the area during his visits to Mattapoisett.

Reporter's personal comment -- What a nice thing for a visitor to Mattapoisett to do for our park. Can we who live in Mattapoisett do any less this summer than treat the area with respect.

Wharf Square Dancing to Continue

The Mattapoisett Square Dance Association is pleased to announce a chairperson willing to organize and oversee the summer 1985 dances. Paul Letourneau is club caller for the Jolly Stompers in Rochester and has been involved in square dance activities for 30 years. Because of his acquaintance with fellow callers and a sincere interest in keeping square dancing on the wharf, a continuing tradition, the Association sponsors extend a big thank you to Paul. The 10 sponsor organizations are one reason "Mattapoisett is Special", and they shall continue to assist at these dances.

See you on the wharf next summer.

Letters to the Editor

The recent article describing the bonfire at Ned's Point, which was sponsored by the Gridiron Club, contains some material that requires clarification.

The initial proposal for a bonfire/rally for the football team was made to me, not the School Committee. I declined on the basis that the rally would recognize only one extra-curricular program and ignore the contributions of the three volleyball teams, two soccer teams, three field hockey teams and two cross country teams; instead, the school sponsored a very successful all sports rally giving equal recognition to all teams.

My call to the selectmen's office was prompted by the placing of many posters around the school announcing a "rally" about which the school officials knew nothing. My "negative vibes" were in part related to this action and to the light coverage of police initially requested. However, no one from the school administration ever requested that the selectmen refuse to allow a bonfire. Rather, it is our responsibility as a public agency to be careful of situations that might bring liability to the taxpayers and our intent was to make clear the fact that this was not a school sponsored activity.

It has been my pleasure to attend the banquets sponsored by the parents of students on our fall sports teams and I wish to publicly acknowledge the work of all these people including the Gridiron Club. We also appreciate the positive support of the general public and welcome all community members to our full range of extra curricular programs.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

On December 6th the Church celebrated the Feast of St. Nicholas - the patron saint of young people. His name, originally from the Latin, was Sanctus Nicolaus. In German, Sankt Nicholaus - Dutch, Sinter Klaas, and finally in our country his name became Santa Claus.

He was actually a real Christian Bishop who lived in the fourth century - a very generous man who did kind things for children.

Dr. Clement C. Moore, who taught in a theological seminary in New York, popularized him with his Christmas poem "A Visit From St. Nicholas". Dr. Moore read the poem to his children first and a visitor was so pleased with it that she copied it and had it published in the Troy, New York "Sentinel".

Millions of little ones are eagerly looking forward to "a visit from Santa Claus" all over this country which is wonderful to see. Let us hope they also don't forget that the original Nicholas was a great saint who had devoted his whole life to The Infant Jesus whose birthday we honor and celebrate on Christmas Day. Parents reading the few words of St. Luke which tell of this "Wondrous Birth" to all the family would truly be celebrating His birthday with greater meaning in a humanist world which seems to have forgotten the love, truth and peace which He came into the world to bring into our hearts.

May all our Christmas and New Year days bring us peace of heart and soul.

Marshall Pryce of Pryce Greenhouses of Mattapoisett has donated the 10 foot Christmas Tree which will be seen with its remembrance lights shining out over the main entrance of the hospital.

The response to the Tobey Hospital Guild's "Light a Light for a Loved One" project has been overwhelming. Names of loved ones have been printed on colored tags and hang on the ornamental tree in the hospital lobby.

Each remembrance costs $2. and can be reserved in the lobby, the gift shop, or by sending donation and name to Tobey Hospital Guild, Box 332, Wareham, MA. 02571. All proceeds go to the Guild and its quest for excellence pledge to the hospital.

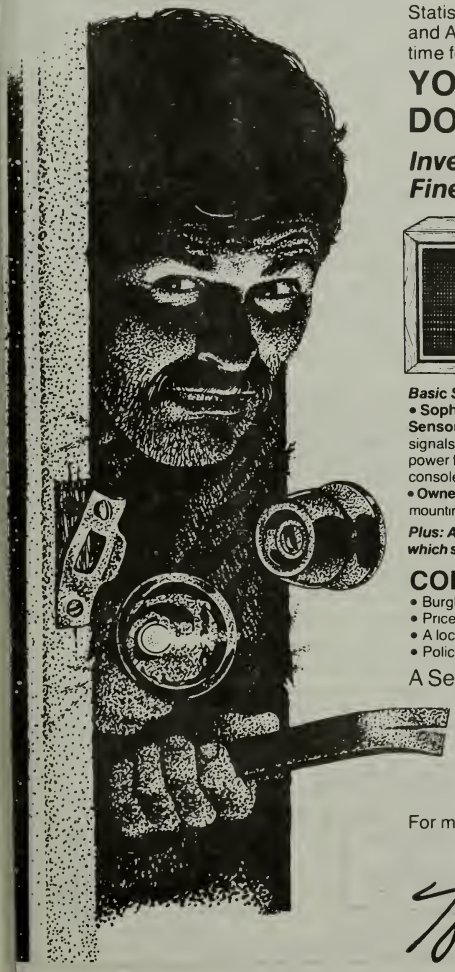
'Tis the Season to be STEALING!

Burglaries are Increasing, not only in cities, but in "NICE" suburbs and "SAFE" farm country!



Statistics show that burglaries occur most frequently during the months of July and August. The only other month to rival these is December, the traditional time for giving and receiving — and for TAKING!

YOU COULD BE NEXT!
DON'T CHANCE IT! (you have a lot to lose!)

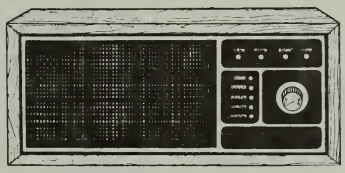
Invest in your family's security with the Finest Perimeter Alarm System Available Today!



You can own a professional home security system which provides low cost, effective perimeter and interior intruder protection, with added advantage of fire protection. Install yourself and save hundreds of dollars. It allows easy "add-on" if you desire, in addition to being completely portable if you should move. "You'll sleep better at night, knowing your family has 24-hour protection!" Ideal for homes, apartments, offices, small businesses.

Basic System Includes:
• Sophisticated Receiver/Control Console - the "brains" of the system. • 2 Pairs of Magnetic Sensors - for installaton on doors or windows. • 2 Sensor Transmitters - when wall mounted, send signals to receiver. • 12-Volt Rechargeable Battery - keeps system operating in the event of a power failure. • Remote Alert Transmitter - allows you to sound alarm from within 100 feet of the console (indoors or outdoors). • Installation Cassette - information for easy installation. • Owner's Manual - comprehensive reference. • Installation Packet - contains all necessary mounting hardware.

Plus: A Five-Year Full Warranty from the Manufacturer which surpasses every other electronic warranty on the market!

CONSIDER THE FACTS . . .

- Burglaries are often accompanied by vandalism, assault, or worse.
- Priceless personal possessions are seldom recovered - insurance is no substitute.
- A lock is not adequate protection against a burglar or other intruder.
- Police may not respond quickly enough to prevent a crime.

A Security System is a Proven Deterrent against a Home Intrusion!

- Burglars are looking for the easiest target.
- Most burglars are young, nervous, and inexperienced — startled by an unexpected alarm, they will turn and run!

A Perimeter Alarm System Can Stop Burglars and Intruders BEFORE they get in!

10th Congressional Republicans

The 10th Congressional District Republican Council (10th CDRC) Steering Committee met Tuesday evening at the Falmouth Sea Crest Hotel.

Republican National, State, County and Town Committee representatives and other Republican leaders throughout the district unanimously agreed upon a structure for the council and several proposed projects for 1985. New by-laws were accepted as proposed.

Ken Grinder of East Harwich was appointed Interim Executive Director, Cere Neal of Pocasset was elected Interim Treasurer, and Judith Sullivan was elected Interim Secretary.

Republican National and State Committee representatives were supportive of the proposals and the council as assembled.

Margaret Handrahan of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee commented, "I feel that this bodes well for Republicans in Massachusetts. We view the tenth congressional district as an area of great opportunities and the base of our strength in the state. I certainly hope that Republicans throughout the district will support the council's efforts to strengthen the party in southeastern Massachusetts."

The Steering Committee will meet again before the general meeting in January.

Treating Hypothermia

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION, UNITED STATES COAST GUARD

Hypothermia - The cooling of the human body faster than it can heat itself - is the major cause of drownings year-round in New England. A victim may be shivering, unconscious, and even appear dead. First aid is the most critical step in saving a hypothermia victim, who must be re-warmed quickly. The best way is to place the victim on a hard, flat, sheltered surface, with head low and feet elevated. Remove wet clothing, and apply warm, moist towels to the head, neck, shoulders, sides and groin. Keep the packs warm by adding warm water of about 110 degrees fahrenheit. Conduct cardio-pulmonary massage if necessary. Take great care not to move or warm the victim's arms or legs during the first minutes of treatment. This may cause cold blood from the extremities to rush into the vital organs and cool them below the survival point. Never give alcohol, which does the same thing. When no other heat source is available, warm the victim by direct, naked body and a Boston Globe All-Scholastic tennis player in the same year, Demakis was recruited by Dartmouth for her tennis abilities. However, when September rolled around the Mattapoisett resident found herself scoring not points on the court, but goals on the field.

This past season Dartmouth won the Ivy League Championship and Demakis led the Big Green in scoring and finished second in the Ivy League with four goals and four assists.

"Even though I played three years of field hockey in high school, I never really considered playing in college," said Demakis. "But three weeks before I was to enter Dartmouth, I was watching my high school team practice and I already missed playing. I decided then that I wanted to try out for the field hockey team at Dartmouth", she said.

It wasn't an easy decision to make. In tennis, Demakis had been ranked as high as fifth in New England in the 16 and under age group and seventh in the 18 and unders by the time she was to uproot to Hanover for four years. A top seed in New England tournaments, Demakis had twice made it to national competition. A highlight of her career included playing, as an amateur, in Longwood's women's pro tournament. Though she was stopped early in singles play there, Demakis and her partner made it as far as the semi-finals in doubles.

The oldest of four children, Nicki had several good offers to continue her tennis career but turned them down to pursue a college education. One of these offers included an invitation to play under Florida's Nick Bolleterri, whose prodigies have included Carling Bassett, Jimmy Arias, and Anne Smith.

With more time and dedication, Demakis might have had the potential to enter the professional rankings. "I wanted to go to a good school and get a college degree," she said. "I knew that somehow I'd be missing out on a lot of things by not going to college."

The choice of which college to attend was easy. In her first visit to Hanover, Demakis fell in love with Dartmouth and knew that she wanted to attend the Ivy school.

She was offered a tennis scholarship at Boston College, but chose Dartmouth where she'd have the flexibility to choose what she wanted to do without any pressures. She applied and was accepted early decision to Dartmouth.

A "walk-on" to the Big Green field hockey team, Nicki started her freshman season on the junior varsity squad. But the scraggy forward moved up to the varsity team for the final eight games of the 1982 season and gave a clue to her offensive prowess by scoring three goals in Dartmouth's stretch run. A starter since then, she has been one of Dartmouth's leading scorers each season and a top Ivy threat in the offensive zone.

"Nicki has a really good competitive attitude," said Mary Corrigan Twyman, Dartmouth's field hockey coach. "She is a strong player who has done a lot more than we expected of her. She is a committed athlete and has shown a tremendous dedication to the sport of field hockey."

Demakis had planned to play field hockey in the fall and then resume tennis competition in the spring with the Big Green. But she missed her freshman spring and her college tennis career never materialized.

Nicki credits her parents, Jocelyn and the late Michael Demakis, with encouraging her athletic interests. "They traveled day in and day out when I was playing tennis, and they've been to many of my hockey games at Dartmouth," she said. "Even when my father was ill he came to every game. He loved to watch me play."

She senses that she inherited her competitive nature from her father. "He taught me two things -- to have good sportsmanship and to never give up."

Did Nicki have any second thoughts about giving up all she had on the tennis court -- a spot in the limelight with a chance for a career on the pro circuit? "Not really", she says. "It was actually a relief to have a break from the schedule I was following." During the academic year in high school she would go from classes to tennis workouts and then home to study for the night. In the fall, she would often go right from the field hockey field to the courts. Her summer tennis playing schedule started at 8:00 a.m. and went till 5:00 p.m.

A geography major, Demakis has career plans to work with National Geographic researching cultural geography. Last summer she completed an intensive program at Dartmouth that involved studying many aspects of geography while doing field research and gaining first-hand experience outside the classroom. This winter she will continue her interest in the field, studying in Mexico.

RENEWAL OF ACCREDITATION BY AABB

Saint Luke's Hospital of New Bedford, Inc. has been granted renewal of accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Harry Ainsworth, M.D.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site inspection by specially trained representatives of the Association and establishes that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the rigorous standards set by the AABB. By successfully meeting those requirements, Saint Luke's Hospital of New Bedford, Inc. can join more than 2,200 similar facilities across the United States and abroad that have earned the Accreditation rating and recognition.

Dr. Ainsworth explains: "The AABB's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a blood bank or transfusion service to be accredited, but like many others, our facility has sought accreditation because it represents a level of professional and medical expertise that meets and exceeds government regulations. Tobey Hospital

THE DIAGNOSTIC VASCULAR LABORATORY

Tobey Hospital is pleased to make available the Vascular Laboratory, providing non-invasive studies for the detection and assessment of vascular disease. The test results aid the attending physician in making correct clinical diagnoses and in planning appropriate treatment for the patient. Although the concept of the Vascular Lab is not a new one, before now patients often had to be referred for these studies as far away as Boston, presenting a hardship, particularly for our senior citizens. "The Vascular Lab is a welcome addition to this immediate area", noted Tobey Hospital Administrator, Charles S. Kinney.

People today are educated through what they read and see on television. We know our diet and the stress and pace of our lifestyles, coupled with the high prevalence of cigarette smoking, takes a toll on our bodies, specifically the circulatory system. Diseases such as phlebitis (blood clots), atherosclerosis, arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), and strokes are not unfamiliar to most people. With the advent of the non-invasive diagnostic procedure, we have the means to detect these diseases in the early stages, and subsequently prescribe medical and/or surgical treatment. Since many diseases mimic other diseases in symptoms, these studies may rule out as well as detect a vascular problem and further indicate what blood vessels are involved and to what extent.

Gayle Stasiak, R.N. and Registered Vascular Technologist, brings to Tobey a background to include years of study around the country at institutions that specialize in non-invasive methods of evaluating patients and her vast experience in the teaching of and technical aspects of the Vascular Lab. Mrs. Stasiak, who set up the Vascular Lab at Tobey, comments, "I am pleasantly surprised to find Tobey to be a progressive hospital, eager to acquire state-of-the-art equipment, to expand the facility, and to provide its patients the latest in medical technology."

Appropriate for both inpatients and outpatients, the studies are totally safe and non-invasive, take less than one hour to complete, and are relatively inexpensive in comparison to more invasive diagnostic procedures. Mrs. Stasiak explains, "The patient lies supine and a doppler probe, about the size and shape of a pencil, is placed by the technologist on a location of the body, depending on the system of the anatomy being assessed. A sound analysis is made by the technologist, as the transmitted ultrasound beam is received through stereo earphones for maximum acuity. The ultrasound beam penetrates the underlying blood vessel. Each major blood vessel is identified and assessed by moving the doppler probe from one area to another. Blood vessels (veins and arteries) have distinctly different sounds. The technologist must listen carefully for subtle variations which aid in determining the presence of and the extent of the disease. The patient does not see, feel, or hear the ultrasound."

Similar to an electrocardiogram, the doppler produces a strip chart recording. This data is compiled by the Vascular Technologist, and interpreted by the physician in charge of the Vascular Lab. At Tobey, Dr. Samuel W. McFadden, Chief of Radiology, interprets the data and issues a formal report to the patient's physician.

Tobey's Vascular Lab, presently located in the Radiology Department, will be a part of the new addition being planned to expand the space and services of the Emergency Room and Radiology Department. As a physician referral is necessary, your private doctor will advise as to the needs for these studies.

Money Management

Individual Retirement Accounts -- the most popular tax shelters for the average American -- accounted for some 13 million contributions last year. According to the Massachusetts Society of CPAs you should be planning now to make your contribution so your 1984 income tax can be reduced. If you have been putting money into an IRA for several years, perhaps you should be thinking about rolling it over into an account that earns more tax-deferred interest.

Here's how the IRA works for you: If you are in the 32 percent tax bracket and you make the maximum IRA contribution of $2,000 you cut your tax bill by $640. In effect, the government pays you to save. You can deduct $2,000 from your income and you pay no tax on the income earned until the money is withdrawn. Let's say, at 35 you expect to contribute $2,000 a year for 30 years. At 10 percent your $60,000 in contributions will grow to $330,000 because interest is compounded. When you retire and begin withdrawing your money you'll save tax dollars because your tax rate can be expected to be lower in retirement years. (If you withdraw from an IRA before age 59½, you must pay a 10 percent penalty.) IRA withdrawals are combined with other taxable income for that year, then taxed at your usual bracket rate.

If your spouse has no earned income, you can put another $250 a year into a IRA. An equitable way to do this would be to split the account into equal amounts of $1,125 in each of your names. If both of you work you can each put the maximum $2,000 into an IRA, thus reducing your joint income by $4,000. While the law sets no minimum contribution level most banks refuse to handle small amounts.

A new tax rule did away with the extended deadline for IRA contributions. Previously, you could apply for an extension of your tax return filing deadline which meant you might have until October 15 to raise the money. Now, your contribution must be made by April 15 to qualify as a 1984 deduction.

Your IRA money may be invested various ways. Your age and financial situation should dictate your investment objectives. If you are approaching retirement you are probably better off with more conservative IRA investments: certificates of deposit, annuities and corporate or government bonds. If a secure retirement fund is not your primary objective you may consider higher-risk IRA investments for their promise of greater returns. These include aggressive-growth stock mutual funds, or more speculative commodities or stock options. Factor in the risk element as you reach decisions.

Don't forget that fees for opening and maintaining your IRA account are deductible as an investment expense. To substantiate the deduction, it's best to pay the fees with a separate check, rather than have the fees deducted from the IRA fund balance by the custodian.

Keep in mind that you can transfer IRA funds or split them among two or more investments. The best way to transfer your IRA is to withdraw the money and open the new account yourself to avoid delays that could occur if you ask the bank or broker to do this for you. The law grants you 60 days to rollover IRA funds before subjecting you to a penalty. If you withdraw IRA money but do not roll it over, the amount is added to your current year's income and taxed.

When you are 59½ you can withdraw as much as you'd like from your IRA; you can also just leave it alone. But at 70½ you must start withdrawals or face penalties. The minimum required withdrawal is based on an actuarial calculation. If you have reached age 70½ you have a life expectancy of 12 years, for example; the minimum withdrawal is one-twelfth of the total amount in your IRA.

One little-known rule on IRAs: At age 59½ your bank may allow you to terminate an IRA account without penalty. So, if you cash in your 18-month Certificate of Deposit after only 12 months, you may not be penalized.

"YEAR OF THE COW" KICKS OFF
WITH CELEBRATION AND NEW EXHIBIT

The Boston Children's Museum kicks off the "Year of the Cow" in true festive Japanese tradition during the annual Oshogatsu (Japanese New Year) Celebration Sunday, January 6, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Throughout the day the Kyo no machiya, the Museum's 100-year-old house from Kyoto, Japan will be decorated in its New Year's finest with pine boughs by the entrance and kagami mochi (symbols of longevity and good luck) in the tokonoma. But that's just the beginning. This year the Museum will not only teach you about origami (the art of paper folding), but you can also make your own and help decorate the origami tree.

Visitors can also learn about, and help make, Oshogatsu Ryori (New Year's food like mochi), as well as ozoni (soup), from noon to 3 p.m.; or find out about cha no yu, the popular and traditional art of tea ceremony, presented by the Boston Urasenke Tea Society at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Throughout the day there will be New Year's Games to play, like fukuwarai (the smiling goddess game), hanetsuki (Japanese badminton), sugoroku (a board game) or karuta (a matching card game). You can also try your hand at kakizome (calligraphy) or nengajo (New Year's greeting cards).

In addition to the Celebration, the Museum just opened a new exhibit of shokuhin sanpurur (fake food). Crafted in the Kappabashi district of Tokyo, it is used for displays by restaurants as enticements to bring in customers and to assist foreign visitors in ordering food. It all looks good enough to eat, but it's really nothing more than washable, non-toxic, polyvinyl chloride. The exhibit includes both typical American dishes such as a peanut butter and jelly sandwich and a hamburger with French fries, as well as some traditional Japanese cuisine like shushi and manju (Japanese sweets). This exhibit will be on display through June 1985.

So, on January 6 bring your family to the Museum and discover a piece of Japan in your own backyard.

The Boston Children's Museum is on Boston's waterfront at Museum Wharf, 300 Congress Street, a short walk from Fanueil Hall Marketplace and accessible by public transportation.

Great American Cooking

Georgia peaches and pecans combine with cornbread, another Southern favorite, to make a sophisticated stuffing for chicken breasts. The stuffing is tucked under the chicken's skin to absorb some of the juices and make an attractive serving.

The taste tempting recipe for Georgia Chicken Bake is a regional favorite found in a fascinating new cookbook featuring 500 best loved recipes from Colonial times to the present. Campbell's draws on its 100 plus years of American food experience to produce "Campbell's Great American Cookbook", a fascinating volume for home cooks and those interested in culinary lore. Published by Random House, the cookbook is available at book and department stores for $16.95.

GEORGIA CHICKEN BAKE

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup sliced green onions
1 can (16 ounces) sliced peaches
¼ cup chopped pecans or toasted almonds
2 cups cornbread stuffing mix
3 medium whole chicken breasts, split
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup halved seedless green grapes
1 tablespoon slivered orange peel
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
Chopped parsley

In a 3-quart saucepan over medium-high heat, in ¼ cup hot butter, cook green onions until tender, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, drain peaches, reserving syrup. Add water to peach syrup to make 1 cup. Chop enough peaches to make ½ cup; reserve remaining peach slices. Add peach liquid, chopped peaches, pecans and stuffing mix to green onions; toss to mix well. Remove from heat; set aside.

With fingers, separate skin from breasts at one end to make a pocket. Spoon stuffing evenly into each pocket. Pull skin over stuffing; secure with toothpick, if necessary. Place breasts in 13 by 9 inch baking dish. Dot with remaining 2 tablespoons of butter.

Bake at 325° F 45 minutes or until chicken is fork-tender.

Meanwhile, in small saucepan, combine orange juice and cornstarch. Over medium heat, heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Add remaining peaches, grapes, orange peel and cinnamon. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer 5 minutes.

To serve: Spoon fruit sauce over chicken; garnish with parsley.

Tip: To use fresh peaches, poach 4 peaches. Slice peaches; substitute peaches and 1 cup poaching liquid for canned peaches and their syrup.

Begin: 1½ hours ahead; 6 servings.
